

Does it sound reasonable that Joe Blackburn stands to day where Carlisle stood in 1891, and where Henry Watterson did up to 1894? It's a fact! He also stands where the majority in Congress stood for twenty years; still he is no democrat and if in the power of the gold-bugs they would readily drive him from her ranks; but his position entitles him to a prominent place in her line, and in which place he will likely remain.—Mayfield Democrat.

The Louisville papers have grown dissatisfied with the Democratic platform, which declares "the use of both gold and silver as standard money" to be a principle of the party, since the people interpret it to mean what it says, and are now demanding that Wat Hardin accept the misconstruction placed upon it by Cleveland and Carlisle. This attempt to make Gen. Hardin forsake the principles of a life time has not met with success, but is disgusting such single standard papers as the Danville Advocate, who love the Democratic party more than Shermanism. The Advocate serves this notice of disapproval: "It is reported that Gen. Hardin will enlist the services of influential friends and through them an appeal will be made to the Louisville papers to abandon their efforts to draw him out on the currency question. The fact that Gen. Hardin has declared that he will abide by the decision of his party on that question and will stand squarely upon the party platform should satisfy every Democrat as to his position without further expression from him on that subject. It is the duty of the Democratic papers, which are supposed to be his friends and supporters, to cater to his wishes as long as the interests of the party are not jeopardized, instead of throwing obstacles in his way."

DEATHS.

ADAMS.—Mrs. Mat Adams, an aunt of Mr. J. Mat Adams of this city, died at her home near Adams station, Tenn., July 24, of heart disease, aged 60 years. Mrs. J. Mat Adams attended the funeral, which occurred Friday.

BRYANT.—Miss Pearl Bryant, eldest daughter of Mr. H. H. Bryant, of Grassy, died very suddenly Sunday night of something like a congestive chill. She was in her usual health only a few days before, and her untimely death was a severe shock to her family and friends. She was in her 17th year and a young lady of rare beauty and sweetness of disposition, and universally esteemed by her acquaintances. Her funeral services were held yesterday and the remains interred at Grassy.

COLORED.

BUCKNER.—Mattie Buckner died in the city of fever Friday, aged 48 years. She was a member of the union Benevolent society and the remains were buried by that order in the colored cemetery Saturday.

How Much the Trip to Old Point Comfort Will Cost

For those who desire to know, we will say that this trip is a most reasonable one, and can be extended and enlarged to suit the convenience of the passenger. Many have made the trip on $35, while those who spent $50 would take in Washington, Baltimore and Norfolk, and some who spent $75 or $100 would visit New York via the Old Dominion Steamship Co., and take some side trips up the Hudson to Long Branch and Coney Island, and to Boston and points further East.

Reduced Railroad Fare.

Persons attending Mineral Springs Camp-meeting, Kuttawa, Ky., July 25 to Aug. 4th, should procure certificates from agent at the time ticket is bought. This, when signed by Secretary at camp-meeting, will entitle the holder to return ticket at one-third fare, July 19, 1895.

M. P. MOLLOY, Secy.

Colored Celebration at Henderson.

Account of the above celebration the O. V. railway, will sell tickets to Henderson and return on August 3d, at one and one third fare for the round trip. Return limit August 4th. E. M. SHERWOOD, B. F. MITCHELL, Agt. G. P. A.

Secure Sleeping Car Reservation

If you intend taking the trip to the sea shore Aug. 7, it would be well to arrange for a berth in a sleeper at once as only a few more sections remain untaken in the Hopkinsville car. Call on or address T. E. Baatley, Kentuckian office, Hopkinsville, Ky.

Three sudden deaths, all within an hour of each other, occurred at Paducah.

Complimentary to Gov. Brown.

Glasgow Times: The withdrawal of Gov. Brown from the Senatorial contest marks the temporary passing from politics of one of the greatest minds and men of the State. Politics is all the loser. When the verdict of history is written, there will be much to commend, little to condemn, in all the administration of Gov. Brown. A strong man, a pure man, a profound and brilliant man, he has risen superior to environments that would have overwhelmed a less virile intellectual manhood. With jealous care he has proven himself. Dealing out equal and exact justice to all, he has not hesitated to antagonize the strongest existing corporations—influences at the call of duty. In all the essential attributes of greatness, Gov. Brown stands with the foremost and greatest of his generation.

Retiring by his own preference from public life for a season, the time will come when his State will again demand his services; talent such as his will not rust with keeping. As sure as the sun shines, God prolonging his life and softening the sorrows that are beating like a storm upon him, Gov. John Young Brown will some day be Senator John Young Brown.

Bowling Green Sunday Journal: The editor of the Sunday Journal admits very frankly that he is a hero of the distinguished Governor of Kentucky. From his boyhood days, when he heard from his father's lips of the terrible slaying given Ben Butler by the then young Congressman from Kentucky, he has ever had the greatest respect and admiration for John Young Brown. Every act of the man's brilliant life has but served to strengthen that feeling. Whether in Congress, as a lawyer, politician, or statesman, he has maintained the highest dignity and exhibited the very finest intellectual powers. Honest, incorruptible, and of distinguished ability, every page of his political life has been printed on the very finest paper, in the clearest type, and with indelible ink. As a Governor, his administration has been a magnificent one, and even those who opposed most bitterly are now loudest in his praise. We had hoped to see, and at some future day yet hope to see his life rounded out as a distinguishing member of the greatest legislative body on earth. That he would be this, if elected, no man who has followed his career, would for one moment doubt or deny.

Referring to Governor Brown, the Lexington Observer says: This retires from the politics of the State one of the purest, bravest and most statesmanlike public officials ever honored by the people of this Commonwealth with public trust. Pure in his private life, courageous in the discharge of every public duty, he will retire Jan. 1, 1896, to private life honored by all just men and beloved by those who know him in his inner life and are able to appreciate the exalted virtues that mark a noble character.

Of him the Hartford Herald says: "A man with the most undaunted courage and a lawyer with scarcely a peer in the Commonwealth, a statesman, a patriot and untiring and unswerving friend of his State and her people, John Young Brown is recognized by every student of affairs and men as the ablest and the best Governor Kentucky has had in this generation. That his priceless service to the State and her people will be recognized by those whose affairs he has so wisely managed, we will not doubt, while we know Kentucky's pride in and appreciation for her favored sons."

Uncle Martin's Birthday Present.

To Rev. Geo. Harris, Geo. Price and a host of other good friends of Lake City, Fla.

I thank you for my birthday gift;

I thank you, Oh, I thank you!

For high in friendship's love and praise,

I rank you, oh, I rank you.

A splendid coat with pants to match,

Also a splendid vest sir!

And all this splendid suit was made

Of cloth the very best sir.

The cloth was made of softest wool,

So pleasant to the touch sir!

And of this splendid gift from friends

I cannot say too much sir.

And now, this birthday gift, the best

I have ever received sir!

I prize it highly coming from

True friends who me relieved, sir.

Then there's Aunt Mary and Aunt Mat,

They seemed to have a view, sir!

Their birthday gift is splendid and

Appreciated too, sir.

And now, my good friends, one and all,

Especially the mover,

I thank you, oh I thank you, till

My heart is running over.

UNCLE MARTIN.

Indigestion Relieved.

Pembroke, Ky. July 3, 1895. "I was suffering from indigestion and purchased some of Hood's Pills, which relieved me, and I desire to recommend Hood's Pills to every one troubled in this way." Maggie Hutcherson.

Vitalia, double strength, for sale by druggists.*

S. C. Oppenheimer, of Owensboro, failed for $6,300. Most of his creditors are Louisville firms.

"The first wealth is health," said the Concord philosopher, and he was right. What is wealth worth without a sound body and strong nerves to enjoy life? The root of the whole trouble is usually the liver. We strongly advise our readers who are troubled with sick-headache, dizziness, of sour stomach, to try Ramon's Tonic Liver Pills. They are working wonderful cures in this vicinity. Only 25 cents at all drug stores. Sample dose free.

A Bank President.

Mr. W. T. Nelson, president of the Second National Bank, of Jackson, Tenn., says: "For indigestion and Nervous trouble, I would rather give up the use of any remedy I ever tried than King's Royal Germetuer. As a nerve tranquilizer, and restorative, it is all that can be desired. It is not a narcotic in any sense, but produces the happiest effects upon the disordered nervous system. I consider it an invaluable remedy, and have for years been recommending it to my friends." New packages, large bottle, 108 doses, $1. For sale by R. C. Hardwick.

Nathan Hibbs, Jr., a Hopkins county widower, was severely whipped by white caps as he was returning from a visit to his sweetheart.
